Wiley's Corporate Citizenship initiative seeks to address the environmental, social, economic, and ethical challenges faced in our business and which are important to our diverse stakeholder groups. Since launching the initiative, we have focused on sharing our content with those in need, enhancing community philanthropy, reducing our carbon impact, creating global guidelines and best practices for paper use, establishing a vendor code of ethics, and engaging our colleagues and other stakeholders in our efforts. Follow our progress at www.wiley.com/go/citizenship.

Online open American Ethnologist accepts articles for Open Access publication. Please visit <http://olabout.wiley.com/WileyCDA/Section/id-406241.html> for further information about OnlineOpen.

Information for authors and contributors

Aims and scope American Ethnologist is concerned with ethnology in the term's broadest sense. Articles published in the journal explore connections between ethnographic specificity and theoretical originality, and convey the relevance of the ethnographic imagination to the contemporary world.

Manuscript form and length Double-space all text and use a 12-point font throughout, including for headings, block quotations, the reference list, and endnotes. Manuscripts should not exceed 11,000 words, including notes and references. Set all margins at one inch (2.54 cm).

Title page Include the article's title and the author's name, institutional affiliation, current mailing address, and e-mail. Provide any acknowledgments at the bottom of this page.

Abstract Each research article must begin with an abstract of 100 to 125 words. The abstract should end with a bracketed list of up to seven keywords or phrases.

Style AE follows The Chicago Manual of Style, 16th edition. For spelling, the reference is Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, 11th edition, which uses US (rather than British) spellings; wherever variant spellings are listed, use the first one given.

References and endnotes Cite according to the author-date system set forth in chapter 15 of The Chicago Manual. Place citations in parentheses and include the author's name and the source's year of publication, with no intervening punctuation, like this: (Herzfeld 2004). Use semicolons to separate two or more references in a single parenthetical citation and list them alphabetically. For quotations or extensive paraphrases, include the pages numbers preceded by a comma: (Herzfeld 2005, 146–47).

On the reference list, include every source cited in the text and no others, listed alphabetically by author (in the case of multiple entries by the same author, list them chronologically, from oldest to most recent). The references must begin on a new page; do not embed them in the endnotes. The layout is as follows:

- Bessire, Lucas, and David Bond. 2014. "Ontological Anthropology and the Deferral of Critique." American Ethnologist 41 (3): 440–56.
- Comaroff, Jean. 1996. "The Empire's Old Clothes: Fashioning the Colonial Subject." In Cross-Cultural Consumption: Global Markets, Local Realities, edited by David Howes, 19–38. London: Routledge.
- Daser, Deniz. 2014. "AE Interviews Catherine Lutz (Brown University)." American Ethnologist website, May 9. Accessed [Month Day, Year]. <http://americanethnologist.org/2014/ae-interviews-catherine-lutz-brown-university>.
- Herzfeld, Michael. 2005. Cultural Intimacy: Social Poetics in the Nation-State. 2nd ed. London: Routledge.

AE uses endnotes, not footnotes. They should be brief, sparse, and directly relevant to the text. In the main text, place endnote reference numbers at the ends of sentences only, using Arabic numerals.

Tables Submit all tabular material separately from the manuscript. Each table should have its own document and be identified at the top by a number and a short descriptive title (e.g., Table 1: Short descriptive title). In the manuscript, place bracketed callouts between paragraphs indicating where tables should be placed, like this: [Please insert Table 1 here]. In the text, each table should also be pointed out to the reader, usually in parentheses, like this: (see Table 1).

Photos, maps, and other illustrations Submit all nontabular images separately from the manuscript. Do not embed them in the text. Instead, send image files in either TIF or JPG format; they should be high resolution (at least 300 dpi) and large enough to print at 8 x 10 inches. Name the image files using your name and consecutive Arabic numerals: Author Name 1, Author Name 2, and so on. In a separate document, submit captions for each image numbered to correspond with the image file names: Figure 1, Figure 2. All captions should include a detailed description of the image (naming the who, what, when, and where) phrased as a complete sentence, as well as a credit, like this:

Crowds in Tahrir Square, Cairo, react with joy to the announcement that President Mubarak will step down, February 11, 2011. (Rick Loomis/Los Angeles Times/Polaris)

In addition to captions, you must submit written permissions for each image, including those you own. In each permission, the image's owner must authorize AE to publish the image both in print and online.

Finally, each image needs a corresponding placement callout and reference in the main text, as with tables (see above).

Suggesting reviewers Authors may suggest up to six people as reviewers (providing their institutional affiliations and e-mail addresses). They may also indicate people they would prefer not to serve as reviewers. The editor is not bound by these suggestions but will respect them as illustrating the article's potential readership.

Submission guidelines Manuscripts submitted to AE should not be under consideration elsewhere or have been published in any form. All manuscripts are reviewed anonymously. Please submit your manuscript online via Manuscript Central, at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ae>. A paper copy is not necessary. Image files may be uploaded at the time of submission or sent to journal.americanethnologist@gmail.com. Scholars who are not members of the American Ethnological Society are required to send a nonrefundable processing fee of $25 (US funds only) to American Ethnologist Journal, PO Box 1185, Davis, CA 95617, USA.

Books for review Publishers should send books for review to Professor Eric Gable, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of Mary Washington, 1301 College Avenue, Fredericksburg, VA 22401, USA. aebookreviews@gmail.com.
